Discover a side of Kruger few visitors get to see – from its extraordinary wildlife and landscapes to the people who protect it, the challenges of conservation and the delicate balance between sanctuary and survival.

Across nearly 20,000 square kilometres of ancient land, the Kruger National Park reveals itself not as a destination, but as a living, breathing presence. In this extraordinary book, the park speaks through a chorus of voices: rangers, scientists, workers, travellers and the wildlife and landscape itself.

HELENA KRIEL Writer, screenwriter and memoirist, Helena is the founder of Baby Rhino Rescue and is deeply committed to protecting wildlife and the vanishing natural world.

DON PINNOCK Environmental and investigative journalist, criminologist and former editor of Getaway, Don is the author or co-author of 18 books, including The Last Elephants and The Last Lions.

BRIDGET HILTON-BARBER is a writer and photographer for Jozi My Jozi, an inner city revitalisation movement, and Daily Maverick, one of South Africa's leading news websites. Bridget is the former editor of Sawubona, SAA's inflight magazine, and a former travel correspondent and producer at Radio 702. A lifelong lover of travel and adventure, she is also the author of nine books.
