Discover a side of Kruger few visitors get to see – from its extraordinary wildlife and landscapes to the people who protect it, the challenges of conservation and the delicate balance between sanctuary and survival.

Across nearly 20,000 square kilometres of ancient land, the Kruger National Park reveals itself not as a destination, but as a living, breathing presence. In this extraordinary book, the park speaks through a chorus of voices: rangers, scientists, workers, travellers and the wildlife and landscape itself.

HELENA KRIEL Writer, screenwriter and memoirist, Helena is the founder of Baby Rhino Rescue and is deeply committed to protecting wildlife and the vanishing natural world.

DON PINNOCK Environmental and investigative journalist, criminologist and former editor of Getaway, Don is the author or co-author of 18 books, including The Last Elephants and The Last Lions.

ALEXIS KRIEL is Co-Chairperson and Executive Director of the African Pangolin Working Group (APWG), and sister of Kruger Speaks co-author Helena Kriel. A former journalist and filmmaker, she has worked with pangolins since 2014 and is also a member of the IUCN Pangolin Specialist Group.
